NOTE: a younger sister of John was living with the family of William & Eliza (Collins) Reddick at this time in the city of Ottawa. Evidence of the 1850 census listing of the William Reddick family group is UNCLEAR as to whether the individual listed as "Frederica" was also a Funk. No surname is indicated. Her surname is implied to have been "Fouche" as that is the surname listed just above for Elizabeth Burrier Funk. (see media sources for William Reddick, husband of Eliza Collins)

"Francis J. Funk married Esther Morton, a native of Massachusetts, and two children were born of their union. Eliza, their daughter, was reared in the family of a Mr. Reddick, by whose surname she was called."

PERSONAL OBSERVATION: Francis J. Funk was apparently married three times: (1) Elizabeth Burger; (2) Esther Morton; and (3) Mary Strockbien. Various items and official documents seem to indicate that Francis J. Funk only had children resulting from his marriage to the first wife. Among those children were Margaret (Funk) Moore [actually, MOHR ], Elizabeth Burrier Funk, and John Funk, husband of Mary A. Rich. For a transcription of the Last Will and testament of Francis J. Miss Elizabeth B. F. Reddick, the adopted daughter of the late Wm. and Eliza Reddick, died at the family mansion, in this city, on Tuesday, 22, aged 46 years, 4 months and 12 days, of catarrhal consumption, together with a chronic affection of the throat, which had troubled her for over twenty years. She was born in Cobleniz, Prussia, and was brought to this country by her parents when she was two years old. They lived near the Fox River House, where her mother died when she was less than three years old. Mrs. Reddick, who was of a charitable disposition, heard of the little girl's bereaved condition and took her home. The childless couple soon learned to love the little one and adopted her as their own. They gave her all the loving care that parents could have bestowed upon their own offspring, and in return her love went out to them in the fullest of childish trust and reverence, which, as she grew up ripened into the respect and devotion of a daughter to her parents. The death of Mrs. Reddick affected her deeply, and the crowning weight of her misery was the loss of Mr. Reddick, since which time she has been [sic] appressed with a load of unspeakable sorrow. This was greatly increased by the worriment of a law suit which threatened not only to have turned her out of the home of her whole life, but in effect to declare her nothing to her adopted parents. SHe thought the suit if decided against the will by which her adopted father gave her a home for life, would in effect pronounce her a trespasser, a sponger of bounties she had no right to enjoy. That these reflections hastened, if they did not cause her death, is certain.

Her remains were interred in the Reddick cemetery lot in West Ottawa, Thursday, after appropriate funeral services at the house.

FEES ACCEPTED FROM BOTH SIDES

The facts are doubtless more or less familiar to the public as another phase of the aftermath of the Reddick will case. That case was tried late in 1886, the jury disagreeing. In Feb'y, 1886, Elizabeth Burrier Funk Reddick died, leaving John Funk, as was supposed, the only heir at law. ...

... claimed was [John] Funk's short-coming and wrong-doing in taking the whole of his sister's [Elizabeth Burrier Funk Reddick] estate to the exclusion of his half-sister's [Margaret (Funk) Mohr] children in Germany. ... under the statutes of the state of Illinois, the children of the half blood stood on the same footing with children of full blood. This is not the case according to the common law [Judge H. T. Gilbert] said....

[Henry Mayo, counsel for Judge Evans] ...began by saying that this suit was founded on the personal animosity of Judge Gilbert toward Judge Evans. He also gave a history of the manner in which [John] Funk had cheated the Mohr heirs; his perjury in swearing he was the only heir to Elizabeth's estate, when he knew these heirs in Germany existed, and said the manner in which he made haste to "buy them off" after he got possession of the estate was evidence that [John] Funk knew that he was not the only heir to the estate [of Elizabeth Burrier Funk Reddick].

NOTE: the identification of Margaret (Funk) Mohr as a half-sister to John Funk would strongly suggest that their father, Francis J. Funk, had been married to someone other than Elizabeth Burger, acknowledged mother of John Funk (see article about John Funk at end of these notes). If so, then Margaret (Funk) Mohr was senior to John, her half-brother, who immigrated with his parents, Francis J. & Elizabeth (Burger) Funk, to the United States around 1843.

JOHN FUNK.

John Funk, one of the leading and public-spirited citizens of Ottawa, LaSalle county, is a native of Germany, his birth having occurred in the town of Coblenz, on the river Rhine, August 1, 1838. When he was five years of age he accompanied his parents, Francis J. and Elizabeth (Burger) Funk, to America, taking passage in a sailing vessel, the Victoria, at the port of Havre de Grace, France. After a long, tedious voyage of many weeks the little party landed at their destination. New Orleans, and proceeded by steamer up the Mississippi river. At first the family lived in LaSalle, but later removed to the vicinity of Rutland, where the father purchased a tract of land of John Green. The wife and mother was summoned to her final rest in 1847, and soon after that sad event the father bought a lot and built a house near the old Fox River Hotel, in Ottawa, making his home here until 1852.

The year mentioned was a notable one to John Funk, for though but fourteen years of age, his father permitted him to become his companion on a trip across the plains. They started with an ox team on April 1, and reached Shasta, California, on the 8th of September following. For eleven months they prospected, being at the placer mines of the Pitt and Grace rivers chiefly, and at the expiration of that time they returned to this state, better satisfied than ever before with its advantages. Francis J. Funk married Esther Morton, a native of Massachusetts, and two children were born of their union. Eliza, their daughter, was reared in the family of a Mr. Reddick, by whose surname she was called. The death of Francis J. Funk occurred in 1880, when he was in his eighty-second year, at his homestead adjoining the town of Streator.

Upon his return to this state from California John Funk resumed agricultural pursuits, to which he gave his attention until he reached his majority. Then, going to Streator, he embarked in the lumber business, selling out his interest in the same in 1870. His next venture was to become a member of the firm subsequently known as McCormlck & Funk, grain dealers, and in this enterprise he met with great success. At the close of a year and a half he bought his partner's interest and moved the buildings and business to Long Point, Livingston county, Illinois. He remained there for eighteen months, then leasing the property and returning to his father's old homestead near Streator. He assisted in the management of the farm during the last years of the elder man's life, and continued to carry on the place until 1888. For the last eleven years he has lived in Ottawa, and has occupied the residence on Columbus street which was formerly owned by his sister, who died a number of years ago. He is the owner of one thousand acres of excellent farm land in Valley county, Nebraska, and of a valuable improved homestead of two hundred and forty acres near the town of Wallace, LaSalle county. Many of the leading industries of Streator found an influential friend and supporter in Mr. Funk. One of the founders of the Streator Coal Company, he was a stockholder and a director of the organization for years, and was a director and vice-president of the Streator Bottle and Glass Company for several years. In political principles he is clear-minded, and, though he never sought or desired public office, his friends and neighbors frequently brought forward his name as a candidate for local positions, with the result that he was elected and served as one of the trustees of Streator, as assessor of the town, and as assessor of the town of Bruce, and held various other offices, acquitting himself in a creditable manner.

In the autumn of 1864 Mr. Funk and Miss Mary Rich, of Streator, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, H. and Mary (Strockbien) Rich. Eight children bless their union, namely: Elizabeth, now the wife of E. S. Kempton, of Adams, Livingston county, Illinois; Amelia, Mrs. William H. JOHN FUNK, AGED RESIDENT, CALLED CAME HERE IN 1852

Passed Away Last Night At Age Of 87 Years After An Illness Extending Over A Period Of Three Weeks

John Funk, one of the oldest residents of La Salle county, miner and farmer, passed away at his home in Dayton township last night after a three week illness. Prior to this time, despite old age, he had enjoyed good health.

He was born on Aug. 1, 1838, in Dougenheim, near Coblenz, Germany, and came to America with his parents in 1843. They settled on a farm near Dayton. In 1852 the lure of gold attracted him with his father to the west. They traveled overland by oxen and after two years of successful mining in the California fields, returned home by boat via the Isthmus of Panama to New York City and then back across the east to La Salle county.

They located on a farm near Streator, where he lived until 1888, when he retired and moved to Ottawa. Four years ago he moved from this city to Dayton, where he has lived with his two daughters.

He was married to Mary A. Rich of Streator in 1864 and she preceded him in death, passing away six years ago.

Ten children were born to this union, two of whom died in infancy. The following survive: Mrs. Elizabeth Kempton, San Francisco; Mrs. Nettie Hendricks, Aurora; Mrs. Mary Smith, Philadelphia; Mrs. Ella Egan, Ottawa; Mrs. Francis Vogel, Rutland, and Frank, Sida and Sylvia at home. Twelve grandchildren and one great grandchild also survive.
